

CONTINENTAL DRIFT?

IS EUROPE PERMANENTLY
SEPARATING ITSELF
FROM THE US IN GLOBAL AFFAIRS?

a lecture by

Michael Rühle

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 2003

INGRAHAM 206

11:30 AM

Michael Rühle is Head of the Policy Planning and Speech Writing Section of the Political Affairs Division at NATO. His major responsibility is the drafting of speeches and articles for the Secretary General and other high-ranking NATO officials. Previously, Mr. Rühle has been a Volkswagen-Fellow at the Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung and a Visiting Fellow at the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS), Washington, D.C. He is a member of the International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS). Mr. Rühle has lectured widely on topics of international security in Europe and the United States. He also publishes frequently on contemporary security issues, particularly on transatlantic relations and the evolution of NATO, and is the co-author of a major book on strategic defense.